EMI Music Publishing Ltd
Publisher Director

Antony Bebawi is General Counsel – Europe at EMI Music Publishing. EMI Music Publishing is one of the world’s leading music publishers with more than 1 million songs in its catalogue. It represents many of the current top songwriters, producers and artists in the music industry today. In addition, EMI Music Publishing owns or controls the copyright in an extensive back catalogue that includes seminal and classic songs.

Antony has been with EMI since September 2005 and was previously a partner at leading London media and entertainment law firm Harbottle and Lewis LLP where he specialised in all aspects of the music industry. His work at Harbottle & Lewis included advising clients in connection with all traditional areas of the music business including recording, publishing, licensing, production, merchandising and sponsorship agreements. He was also particularly highly regarded for his expertise in on-line, mobile and new media services relating to music and advised multimedia and telecommunications clients alongside traditional music industry clients.
