

Limited Online Music Licence (LOML)

Who needs this licence?

Small digital services in the UK that offer on demand streaming, permanent downloads, podcasts, webcasting and general entertainment content to a UK audience. We categorise services as small if their annual gross revenue is less than £12,500.

What this licence covers

LOML covers the communication to the public and associated mechanical rights (excluding synchronisation) of our members' repertoire through digital services.

How do I apply?

Visit prsformusic.com/loml to register your details and apply for a licence. You can pay with a credit or debit card.

What are the licence fees?

Fees are based on how much music a service uses. Prices start from £138 + VAT for a 12 month licence.

Reporting requirements

You need to tell us how much music you used at the end of each licence period. We can top up your licence if you underestimated your level of music usage at the start of the licence year.

LOML does not cover

- Sound recording rights – visit ppluk.com for more information
- Services operating outside the UK
- Synchronisation rights
- Use of music in adverts, sponsorship or corporate videos
- Adaptations of works
